

Oakerhater School for Deacons

The Oakerhater School for Deacons has developed an excellent curriculum and complete training outline that is available for review upon request.

Unfortunately, there is no one in diaconal formation at this time. Because numbers are few, the school is prepared to offer a tutorial program to anyone who has completed the diocesan discernment process.

A variety of people have also been helpful in expanding the vision of the School. Preliminary talks have addressed the development of the Oakerhater Institute of which the School for Deacons would be a department. The Institute could possibly be a diocesan forum that would organize lay leadership training, EFM, etc. At this time such a venture is in planning stage. Anyone interested in working on the development of the Institute should contact David Meyers 616 754-3557.
